

DR. LOWELL DENIES ANY BAN ON JEWS

Tells House Speaker Accusations Are Based on 'Rumor.'

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 3.—New allegations of discrimination against Jews at Harvard University came to-day in conjunction with the statement late this afternoon from Speaker B. Loring Young of the House of Representatives that President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard had made it clear to him that so policy of discrimination was decided in or intended.

President Lowell at the invitation of Speaker Young visited the State House, where the two discussed the controversy for more than an hour. That the action was prompted largely by a resolution introduced in the Legislature yesterday by Representative Webster of Boxford, calling for an investigation of the situation, the Speaker admitted.

At the close of the conference Speaker Young declared President Lowell had explained to him that the reports of proposed discrimination were based upon "idle rumor," and that Dr. Lowell had made it clear to him that Harvard would remain "in the future, as it has been in the past, a great university for all the people, based upon fundamental principles of great service to the community."

In a prepared statement Speaker Young said: "I was informed by President Lowell that the only action officially taken or contemplated was the adoption of the following by the faculty: 'That a special committee be appointed by the president to consider principles and methods for more effectively sifting candidates for admission.'"

The statement further made it known that the legislative order introduced yesterday by Mr. Webster, asking for an official inquiry into the situation, was an important factor in the speaker's action in inviting President Lowell for to-day's conversation.

While the authorities at Harvard were silent, messages came from many sections asking for the facts and revealing anxiety as to the university's plan. Many of these were from alumni.

Assertions were made that a well-defined and persistent propaganda against the Jews has been under way at Harvard for some time, and that it has been shown in the student activities. The charge is made that Jewish students who aspire for places on the staffs of the college papers are quietly advised that such an effort would be useless. It is being alleged that the discrimination is marked socially and in athletics, as well as in the matter of selection for the much sought clubs.

It developed that the problem was first discussed at a meeting of students on April 8. Nine undergraduates, five of them Jews, attended that meeting. Among the undergraduates present were Corliss Lamont, son of Thomas H. Lamont, New York financier, and Arthur Welton, president of the Crimmon. It is said they discussed the part Jews were taking in Harvard college life. On May 15 there was another meeting and the conversation at this meeting was reported to the faculty.

M'CORMICK MAY FORBID WEDDING

Delays Approval of Daughter's Marriage as Mother Drops Her Legal Fight.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
CHICAGO, June 3.—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick to-day officially ended her legal fight to stop the marriage of her daughter, Mathilde, to Max Oser, Swiss riding master.

Her attorney, Charles S. Cutting, appeared before Judge Horner and withdrew his motion for an injunction against the marriage. This action gives to Mr. McCormick the guardianship of his daughter without any legal restrictions. The proceedings lasted two minutes.

Judge Horner, however, said "the court expected Mr. McCormick to take into consideration all the matters pertaining to the welfare of his ward which had been brought to his attention during the recent proceedings."

Edwin H. Cassells, attorney for Mr. McCormick, responded: "We can assure the court the guardian will discharge his duties with fidelity and to the best interests of all concerned."

Although Mr. McCormick becomes the absolute guardian of his daughter he does not escape altogether from the jurisdiction of the court, Judge Horner stated following the hearing.

"The court still retains jurisdiction over the ward in such a case," Judge

Horner said, "and may take action if the guardian's acts are at any time not conducive to the happiness or best interests of his ward. Such action would have to find origin in a petition of some interested party."

Saves for this possibility Miss McCormick is now free to marry Max Oser as far as official interference is concerned. The only obstacle in the path to the altar now is the permission of Miss McCormick's father, Harold McCormick. Mr. McCormick had indicated he would allow the marriage, but it was learned to-day he has decided to withhold approval pending further investigation and conferences.

The court fight that promised to become sensational was dropped. It was authoritatively learned by Mrs. McCormick in order to avoid publicity. Counsel for Mrs. McCormick declared that further court action with a view to enjoining the wedding had been abandoned.

Mrs. McCormick's petition asking for the restraining order contained charges that Oser sought the marriage with hopes of financial gain and pointed out the great disparity in the ages of her daughter and the riding master, who is twenty-seven years her senior. The girl was 17 in April. The petition further stated that for the sake of her daughter's "future happiness" the petitioner wished the court to issue a restraining order preventing Mr. McCormick from giving his consent to the marriage.

The hand of John D. Rockefeller, grandfather of Mathilde McCormick, was seen by some in Mrs. McCormick's attempt to frustrate the marriage.

N. J. BLUE LAW REPRISAL WOULD CLOSE A CHURCH

Police Asked to Halt Newark Illustrated Sermon.

Following the ordered Sunday closing of a Newark theater under the old blue laws of New Jersey, Director of Public Safety Brennan was asked yesterday to stop the Rev. Dr. Henry R. Roze, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, from giving his customary illustrated lectures on Sunday night. The request was made by Dr. G. M. Sykes in the name of the American Longevity Association, with offices at 44 Montgomery street, Jersey City.

"If it is immoral for commercial houses to keep doors open it surely is immoral for the church," Dr. Sykes said. The complainant was advised to take the matter to the First Precinct police court, which is considering the cases of twelve commercial theaters, against which complaints of violating the Sunday blue laws have been filed. Dr. Sykes did not register his complaint with the court yesterday.
